September 8 – 10, 2014

Using Online Platforms for Student Collaboration and Publication

As we move to more networked online platforms, collaborative tools are more readily available. Come explore some of the new ways to collaborate online to work, publish, and play. This will be a hands-on workshop.

Presented by: Ken Fujiuchi

Monday, May 19, 9:00 – 11:00 am, BUTL314

Instructional Resources: A Tour of the Future

Green-screen technology! Multi-track recording! The range of options for enhancing course material and delivery are virtually endless and with the help of Instructional Resources, closer at hand than you might think. Join fellow faculty in a tour of Instructional Resources and find out what is available! Meet in the Bulger Lobby.

Sponsored by: Melaine Kenyon

Monday, May 19, 11:00 – 12:00 noon, BULG100

Intrusive Advising for Student Success

Are you concerned about providing the best advising experience for you and your students? Do you want advisement conversations to be more than a discussion about course selection? Explore best practices for offering effective advisement sessions. Participants will learn about the intrusive advising model and will have the opportunity to ask questions about the IF Provost Waivers and Intellectual Foundations 2014 program.

Presented by: Marie Ferraro & Amitra Wall

Monday, May 19, 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm, BACO205

Celebration of Diversity Reception

This networking reception will celebrate the successes of the Coalition Building team, announce exciting new developments for 2014, and premiere a student produced film about student perceptions of diversity in 2014, entitled The New America. Wine and refreshments will be served. All faculty and staff are invited to attend.

Sponsor: Buffalo State NCBI Campus Affiliate, Coalition Building Team
Monday, May 19, 4:00 – 6:00 pm, Campbell Student Union Assembly Halls. The favor of a reply is requested by May 12, 2014 to (716) 878-5609.

The Anne Frank Project
Save the Dates

For the sixth year, the SUNY Buffalo State Anne Frank Project will explore difficult issues such as racism, sexual abuse, bullying, and genocide through participatory workshops. For more information or to submit a proposal, visit: <http://annefrankproject.buffalostate.edu/>
Dates: September 8 – 10, 2014

Service-Learning Fellows Retreat

Service-Learning Fellows Retreat (off campus)

Please note: This event will take place at UB.

Welcoming Diversity and Inclusion

Extending generosity and respect in a complex world filled with different identities and perspectives depends on our ability to navigate the cultural landscapes of ethnicities, behavior, beliefs and values, while remaining true to our own ethnic, religious, economic and social identities. How do we move forward together with so many issues at play between us, and the people we see as "other"? Participants of this workshop will develop strategies to celebrate their similarities and differences, claim pride in their individual and group identities, recognize misinformation learned about other groups, identify and discover ways to heal from internalized oppression, understand the personal impact of discrimination through telling and hearing stories, and learn hands-on skills for dealing effectively with oppressive comments and behaviors. All day event – light breakfast (8:30 am) and lunch served.

Presented by: Gail Wells & Dale Capristo

Tuesday, May 20, 8:30 am – 5:00 pm, BACO117

Recruitment and Retention: A Conversation about Buffalo State's Future

Join the Interim Vice-President for Enrollment Management in an open and frank dialog about the role of faculty in the recruitment and retention of the next generation Buffalo State student.

Presented by: Brad Fuster

Tuesday, May 20, 10:00 am – 12:00, BACO207

Creative Learning: Models and Methods

This interactive workshop will highlight two models that can be used to promote creative learning. First, we will use the Creative Thinking Skills model as a general framework that can be used to design and deliver creative learning experiences. We will show how some of the tools that are imbedded in this model can be applied in any subject area. Secondly, we will focus on the Accelerated Learning Model and identify the principles and methods that can be applied to create learning designs that result in more enjoyable, engaging and satisfying experiences for both students and faculty. This workshop is designed for faculty interested in incorporating creative thinking into their lessons and courses. To that end, participants are encouraged to identify a learning objective to be used as a focus for their own application during this session.

Presented by: John Cabra & Tim Switalski

Tuesday, May 20, 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm, BACO207

Difficult but Necessary Conversations about the Learning Community
Program: Reflecting on Our Past and Planning for Our Future

Roundtable discussion designed for returning learning community faculty, student development liaisons, and librarians. Participants will dissect the programmatic goals of the Learning Community and will identify elements of a successful Learning Community experience. Information about first-year students and student development resources will be shared. The goal of this session is to consider the how the Learning Community program fits in with the First-Year Program. Lunch provided.

Making the Most of Teaching Opportunities: Team Teaching and Integrated Learning Strategies

Are you going through the motions when teaching the same courses semester after semester? Can you proclaim that you can do your courses in your sleep? If your responses are yes, then spice up your teaching routine by attending this workshop. This workshop session seeks to shake you out of your teaching doldrums and is open to all, but is geared specifically to Learning Community faculty. All participants will dialogue about failures and successes when attempting these strategies in the Integrated Hour.

Presented by: Lori Woods & Carlos Jones

Wednesday, May 21, 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm, BACO115

Crucial Conversations

Learning how to talk about expectations in a way that solves problems requires accountability. In this session, we will explore the dynamics on a different level. Research data show that when people see accountability as "someone else's job" they waste time, resources, and morale. How are your conversations going in the workplace? Are you using the Crucial Conversation model? Let's get back to basics!

Presented by: Otilie Woodruff & Rita Zientek

Thursday, May 22, 10:00 am – 3:00 pm, BACO115

Ask a Question, Save a Life – QPR for Campus Faculty and Staff

QPR stands for Question, Persuade, & Refer – 3 simple steps to help prevent suicide. Certified trainers will teach participants these steps and provide time for practice. QPR is a component of the College's Substance Abuse & Mental Health Services Association's grant entitled "Buffalo State Cares: A Call to Bystanders to Prevent Suicide on Campus."

Presented by: Ron George, Suzanne Johnson, & Joan McCool

Thursday, May 22, 10:00 am – 12:00 noon, BACO205

Kognito: At Risk for University & College Faculty

Online interactive training for faculty and staff to learn to recognize signs of psychological distress and connect students to appropriate support services. If you would like to learn how to identify students who may be at risk of suicide and what you can do about it, come to this seminar. Bring your headphones because this is conducted at a computer and interacting with avatars. 96% of users who completed the training reported that they would recommend the course to their colleagues.
